Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Immigrants and Their Children, 1920, Vol. 7: A Study Based on Census Statistics Relative to the Foreign Born and the Native White of Foreign or Mixed Parentage When modern censuses began, the enumeration unit was the family or household, and the population was determined from the number of households and the number of persons in each. But for two generations the enumeration unit has been the individual, to whom a line on the schedule or a separate card or sheet is devoted and about whose characteristics many questions are asked. The answers state physical traits, like sex, age, and race; educational traits, like illiteracy or ability to speak English; and economic traits, like occupation or ownership of the home. Most of the tables which result from assembling the answers to these questions are necessarily underlain by the idea that the individual is, at least for census purposes, the unit out of which society or the State is constructed. More recently this one-sided individualism of the census tabulation has been supplemented by special studies of certain...
