Not illustrated. 1911 Excerpt: . . . were retained and commercial agents were at times employed to sell the companys goods in Holland. In Stockholm Benjamin Bonnell continued to be the salesman. He stood in closer relation to the company than the other factors, Trotz and Schotting, and his salary was 600 D. a year, hence larger than that of any of the other officers. 38 He handled most of the tobacco which was brought into Sweden on behalf of the company and sold it in large and small quantities, until the Tobacco Company was organized in 1643. From that time until 1652 he sold only in wholesale to the members of the Tobacco Company. The peltries brought from America were also sold by him, except in cases where they were sent to Holland. He made contracts with Dutch merchants and large quantities of tobacco were brought to Sweden under these agreements. All...
